

AN AMERICAN IN TURKEY

An adventurous comedy. A trip into the historical past, the present, and the future.

Doug draws the main prize in a lottery by Snacks & Co. The same day, he tells his wife, Carry, that they have won a two-week holiday to Turkey. The two are overjoyed. Just a week later, they are seated in an airplane heading for Antalya. The turbulent adventures already begin at the airport. Among the other guests, they meet a German, or more specifically Bavarian, family and find out that they have to spend these two weeks on the same floor and under the same roof. Soon enough, despite communication problems, the two women are engaged in a catfight.

In the meantime, Doug falls in love with the beautiful Turkish tour guide Yasemin. Together with this beauty, he wallows in daydreams at the historical sites and during other group and individual tours, a distraction not always popular with the other guests.

When Carry discovers that her husband is dreaming of another woman she comes up with a devilish plan, which she promptly carries out.
