

HELENA'S TEARS

Semira is a girl who lives close to Trojan excavations in the present-day village of Tevfikeye. Without realizing it, she carries the soul of Helen of Troy in her, and she will suffer the same fate.

Semira is born in Tevfikeye, a little village close to Trojan excavations. While still a schoolgirl, she experiences visions. She feels attracted to the excavations where she finds inner peace, contentment, and happiness. This causes the people around her to consider her bewitched.

Later, as an adult, these rituals continue, and the visions and appearances intermingle with reality. Step by step, they prepare her for real life and the future. Semira lives her life without suspecting that she carries Helen's soul inside her and will suffer the same fate and cry the same tears.
